

According to the formula derived above, the entropy for the respective ensemble depends on corresponding partition ~~pa~~ function. As the partition functions have different constant values, so the determined entropy will be different.

The statement is True.

